
Digital download

Issue 1, May 2020

#StaySafeStayHome Edition - making the best use of tech

Hi,

As another week of social isolation has come to an end, in this #StaySafeStayHome Edition, we spotlight the experiences of a range of families managing their new normal with the help of tech and the online world. We also highlight a range of online resources available to support children's learning.

Also, in our Thursday Sessions with Dr Linda, we focus on how parents can talk about sexting to help young people make safer choices when it comes to managing romantic relationships online.

We'd encourage you to share this with other parents and carers. If you have any feedback get in touch on our Facebook page @InternetMatters.

New resources

What's new on our #StaySafeStayHome advice hub?

Here is a short round-up of our new articles, resources and guides to support your family.

Latest articles and resources

- Dr Linda shares tips on how to talk about sexting to help young people make safer choices
- Parents share their experiences of tech and wellbeing during lockdown
- Learning goes live to support families homeschooling
- Google creates a hub to help you avoid Covid-19 online scams
- New Game Safe online gaming advice guide

VISIT ADVICE HUB

Visit the Internet Matters website for more

Key online issue explained

From cyberbullying to dealing with online grooming, you'll find expert advice and resources to support your child on the top challenges they may face online.

Learn more ..

Get in control of parental controls

Set up your child's device safely with our parental control and privacy how-to guides, offering video and visual steps to make it simple.

Visit guide....

Try age-specific safety advice

Whether you have a pre-schooler or a teen to support online, use our age-specific advice to give them the right advice and get up to speed with what they need support on at that age.

Read more ..